

Dr. Ken Miller

Today's Scripture: Isaiah 64:1-9

Many people have described today's environment as a culture of _____.

There are fears regarding _____, our _____, our _____, our _____, our _____.

Sometimes we even have fear of _____.

We are often afraid of _____.

Christian teaching has always had another message. From Catholic popes to U-2, the message has been _____.

It is a message that Advent repeats. Perhaps it can encourage us yet again as we enter another celebration of Christ's coming and another anticipation of His return.

Advent means _____.

It begins with an _____ of our helplessness.

It grows with a _____ of God's faithfulness.

"Wishing, Hoping, or Trusting"

November 30, 2008

It leads to an _____ of our faithfulness.

It calls for our _____ of our sinfulness.

It directs us to a _____ in God's sovereignty.

It alerts us to _____ of His appearances.

It directs us to an _____ of His consummation.

Christian hope – the hope of Christ's coming – is a witness to a world that can do little more than _____ that things would get better. It offers _____ for the future, as it _____ completely in the Lord who has _____ and is _____.