

Dr. Ken Miller

The sense that something is wrong with the world seems to be _____.

The answers to what that “something” is are quite numerous. Christians have often adopted the world’s way of asking and answering the question, which gets to the very heart of who God is and what He is “up to.” Paul has some surprising insights for us to consider.

1. The starting point: _____
_____.

All of creation is affected by _____
_____.

Suffering, for both people and the creation, is _____.

2. It is critically important that we know _____

_____.

We must remember that this is who God is—not another version. Our _____ and _____ of the world come from this story, this God.

“Not The Way It’s Supposed to Be” Romans 8:18-27

July 20, 2008

3. In the world, we will continue to have hurts; during that time we are _____ of what is to come.

we _____ in our weakness

we _____ for God’s Kingdom

we _____ in confusion

we _____ for what is yet to come